Mrs. Ray Knight and Ethel Jenner were Lethbridge visitors Monday.

Miss Madge Cluff left Wednesday for Rusk's ranch where she expects to spend a month or two.

Doesn't it look good to see the fall grain taking rolling down Broadway to the elevator.

Miss Dorothy Young leaves this week for her home in Lethbridge.

Miss Viola Allen left Wednesday morning for Salt Lake where she expects to attend the University of Utah.

F. L. Nye, brother to Geo. O. Nye, is up from Utah. Most of his family being here he may stay for the winter and attend the Academy.

Mrs. J. H. Wall went over to Lethbridge to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Wall has been ill for some time and was at last forced to succumb.

Second ward was a lecture "Put Your Shoulder to the Wheel," Geo. H. Budd, Solo Thos. Albiston, Lecturer "Self Control," Mrs. Mabel Pownell; Trio Loretta Salmon, Daisy Erickson and Ruby Stevens; Reading Linton Jeffrey.

Dante's Inferno at the Rex next Friday night. It shows the poet Dante being taken thru "Hell" and there shown the different punishment meted out to certain wicked sinful men of his day. Don't fail to see it.

Mr. Will Rodeback is looking greatly pleased over something these last few days. It has been impossible however for any one to discover the secret of his elation.

Miss Maydell and Lila Cazier accompanied by their cousin Fred Kitchin, came up from Utah last Saturday night. Miss Maydell will teach the English department at the Academy while Miss Lila and Fawn will go to school.

Charley Kinsey's Saddle horse "Jack" was matched against a Lethbridge horse last week for a purse of $50.00. The race was a good one but Charley's horse won quite easily.

The first car load of fruit which has ever come directly to Raymond arrived this morning from the Bel Valley, Oregon, for the Raymond Mercantile company. The fruit is of the finest quality, one peach eaten by the editor measured ten inches in circumference.

Myron Holmes, son of Henry Holmes, leaves for Guelph Ontario next Monday, to continue his agricultural studies. He does not expect to return home next summer, but has concluded to accept a position offered him there and remain for graduation.

Word was received by Mrs. N. L. Anderson, that her father W. T. Liugard of Lethbridge, had passed away. The cause of his death was not known until it came quickly. Mr. Liugard was a former resident of Raymond as many old timers will remember, all of whom extend the warmest sympathy to the sorrowing family.

T. J. O'Brien answered the question asked by Mr. Utell at the Alta last Saturday night. "What is the 17th commandment?" The answer, "and another commandment give I unto you, that ye love one another even as I love ye," is correct.

found in the New Testament. Mr. Utell says, "You" is the first one in "seven states" that has answered it correctly.

There is to be a big social for the M. I. A. girls of both wards Friday afternoon at four o'clock sharp in the Second Ward meeting house. Music, folk-dancing, refreshments and fun will be the program. Every girl or woman who's to cents for admission is expected to be there. Then at 8 o'clock sharp the revelry will continue in the opera house.

This time they decided to let the boys in on it. It will be dismissed promptly at ten so be on time.

Owing to the disconnected wires there were no lights last Monday night before nine thirty o'clock. There was a big crowd in the Rex Theatre waiting to see the sensational picture "Saturn," but many left after waiting some time. Those who stayed were well paid in the picture. Although its starting so late made it a bit tiresome towards the end.

The two first reels depicting actual scenes including incidents from the Savior's life were especially beautiful. It would seem almost impossible to imagine it more realistically.

Both conjoint programs at the respective wards last Sunday night were delightfully entertaining. They were well attended and appreciated highly by all present. The first ward consisted entirely of an evening with "Longfellow." A sketch of his life by Jessie Redd; Solo "The Rainy Day," Mrs. Snow; Reading by Florence Resmanous; Piano solo, Ellen Holmes; Reading "King Robert of Sicily," Mrs. Tanner; Remarks L. B. Roberts.

Mr. Snow Mitchell of Garfield, Utah, is in town visiting with his aunt Mrs. Rudolph Tollerup. He is looking Raymond over as a prospective place to stay and teach piano. Mr. Mitchell is a graduate of the music department at Provo and is fully qualified to teach all, even the advanced students. Raymond would be very fortunate in obtaining the additional services of such a capable instructor. He is going to play at the Rex Theatre for several nights.

It was certainly a sight to remember for anyone attending the concert Wednesday night for the Bel Valley. The whole of "Belquinnville" was out on masse, men, women and children. The concert consisted of solos, quartettes, duets, speeches and readings. Some of our residents having lived in "Dutchland" are quite well acquainted with the songs and tongue, while some had to learn "their language" for the occasion. The concert was given under the auspices of the second ward in their meeting house and they are certainly to be congratulated on the good time they gave our foreign friends for if applause and beautiful smiles spoke for anything it was a pronounced success.

Miss Ethel Jenner met with a very painful accident last Sunday night. While driving home alone the horse became frightened and bolted throwing Ethel to the ground. Before she could regain her feet the terrified animal kicked her in the face, cutting her lip badly and breaking her front teeth completely off. She was unable to catch the horse so was forced to walk two miles back to Magrath. There being no doctor there she was brought to Raymond early Monday morning where medicav aid was procured. She left for Lethbridge the same morning to consult a dentist about her teeth. This is indeed sad news to her many friends here who assuredly wish her a speedy and successful recovery.

Property Confiscated For Past Due Tax

Town Confiscates 60 Parcels of Property One Years Time Given Owners to Redeem.

Judge Jackson, Mr. H. Ostlund and James Dawson clerk of court set as a court of confiscation on all delinquent taxes of 1911 and 12 on Tuesday last.

There were between fifty and sixty parcels of property turned over to the Town. This property is now registered in the name of the Town and the former owners must pay the costs of court, transferring and registering of titles. The owners have one year's time in which to redeem their property.

The delinquent taxes on the property amounts to $3,000 and 5 per cent is added every six months so long as it remains unpaid.

This court of confiscation has been duly advertised for several weeks, in the local and Government newspapers, also the taxpayers have been notified of their arrears.

This is the first time the Council has used such measures to collect the taxes. In the future the residents will be more prompt in paying their just assessments and avoid these unnecessary expenditures.

Indian Reserves Discussed.

The government representative Mr. Roche who has been in the country investigating the need for more grazing land in this district prior to throwing the Blood Reserve open. He held several meetings with the main stockmen of this district.

Mr. Roche beyond that many stockmen are forced to sell their cows and cut down their herds on account of the diminishing of the range.

The cattlemen of this district have agreed that if the Blood Indian reserve be thrown open they will take up the land and stock it with thriving herds of cattle.

The government will undoubtedly recognise the needs of the stockmen and will grant them the privilege of using this land which is lying idle at their very doors.

News From The Missionary Field.

42 Mechanic St. Portland, Me. Aug. 25th, 1913. Editor of "The Liberator," Raymond, Canada.

No doubt some of the readers of your valuable paper would be interested in my whereabouts and labors as a missionary, and if you will allow me space in your columns I will give some of my experiences while engaged in the work of the Lord.

I left Raymond April 16th, 1912 and reported at the headquarters of the Eastern States Mission in New York City, on the 30th day of the same month. I was assigned to work in the Maine Conference where I have labored since then, our headquarters being in Portland.

My first missionary experience was in Portland where I did city work for six weeks. At first it was very embarrassing, although I was feeling gradually left me. I imagined everyone was looking at me and saying, "there goes a Mormon." One day while tracing, a woman, (Irish) drove me out of the yard with a pole and another one threatened to set the dog on me if I didn't get out of the lot. Others almost flinched when I told them I was a Mormon, they would actually throw up their hands and scream. You can imagine how a person would feel meeting reception like these, and being young, inexperienced, just a green boy from the farm, I wondered what was the cause of so much bitterness towards my people, and what I had done to be treated thus. But I soon discovered how misinformed they were as regards the Mormon question.

Last summer I did country work in Hancock Co. where we had the privilege of holding a number of meetings and baptizing some into the Church of Christ. We explained the plan of salvation, the blessings enjoyed by the ancient Saints. At some of our meetings people told us it was the first religious service they had attended in twenty-five years and invited us to come again.

I enjoyed my work very much and, with the exception of one night we found entertainment. That Sunday night was spent under the pines, superfluous and our next meal was Tuesday morning.

I labored in Brunswick and Bath last winter; we made a number of lasting friends. One family, who had become almost discouraged in their search for truth, became interested in our message. After visiting them a few times they purchased a number of books with a desire to find the truth. After reading them and hearing us explain the plan of salvation, they were convinced that it was the gospel taught by the Savior and that Jos. Smith was a prophet of God. They were baptized this spring.

Elder W. A. Allen of Hyrum, Utah, and myself, have been laboring in Biscuit and Somerset Counties this summer, where we have explained the gospel to a number of people, and made friends of some who were very bitter towards our religion.

We have walked nearly 700 miles since June 20th, during this time we have worked among people who had never seen a Mormon, although most of them had more or less about us. To read more or less about it. As they were quite curious as they expected to see old men with long beards and there for no other purpose than to get women.

We have stayed in hotels, hovels, the best of homes and camps in the woods. One day after staying in a V. M. C. A. we walked twenty miles without breakfast, dinner or supper. We certainly enjoyed our next meal, which consisted of biscuits and sausages.

Last Sunday we asked every house for eight miles before we found a place to stay. But these are exceptions.

Taking everything into consideration we have had a most enjoyable time and being blessed with good health we feel to rejoice and thank our Heavenly Father that we have been permitted to take part in this Latter Day work and to promulgate the Gospel.

My desire is, that I may fill an honorable mission and be of use to my fellowmen when I return home. Wishing you the best of success and thanking you for the Liberator, I remain your brother in the cause of truth,

Elder Melvin E. Harris

Farmers and Finance

Present conditions do not closely associate farmers and finances.
The farmer is being ridden and the financiers are doing the riding. Statesmen in some countries have seen the necessity for furnishing farmers relief from excessive rates of interest if farmers with insufficient control, but possessing every other requisite, are to be allowed to perform their duty to the state in the proper cultivation of its lands. In Australia for instance the government has devised ways
of obtaining money, thro' government savings banks and the use of the states surplus, which it loans to farmers at 5 per cent per annum and the net profit to the state, for the fifteen years the law has been in operation, is in excess of one million of dollars.

Australia has now opened savings banks in London and other English financial centers where it pays 4 per cent per annum deposits [the usual rate being but 3 per cent] carrying the money to Australia and loaning it at 5 per cent and according to the report at the Trade Commissioner
the government has over a million dollars net profit as the result of its fostering farming in the providing of cheap money.

With 5 per cent money to farmers in Canada, farming would receive such an impetus as would make this nation in a few short years, the marvel of the world.

The statesmen, whether Dominion or Provincial who will provide the stimulus of cheap money would be such a benefactor to his time and nation and would achieve such honor as it falls to the lot of but few national heroes to.

When it is attempted as such a national necessity should be immediately, he must expect some protest from the banking interests, that for mildness will be of the earthquake variety, and Heaven help him if he has an over-draft.

Hogs to Become Alberta's Main Crop

Are the farmers of Alberta going into mixed farming?

The hog crop of Alberta for 1913 will bring in more money to the farmers of Alberta than the twenty-six million bushel wheat crop of 1912 did.

The hog crop of Alberta in 1913 will be five times as large as the hog crop of 1912. The swine production of 1914 will be five times as great as that of 1913. The returns of live stock of different kinds in Alberta in 1914 promises to be greater than the entire wheat crop of the province for the same time. That is some indication of the spectacle which the farmers are going into live stock.

The Alberta hog is rapidly taking its place in the gallery of fame
beside the Alberta steer, the Alberta sheep, the Alberta potato
to the bushel oats and the Alberta Red. The latest member of the aggregation seems likely to be the greatest wealth producer of them all.

TOWN AND COUNTRY HELP EACH OTHER

Farms and Industrial Centres are Complementary—Relations of Urban and Rural Populations

(From Winnipeg Country Life)

Man cannot live by bread alone, and a Province cannot live by farms alone or a nation by the sole industry of agriculture. Country and town are complementary — inter-dependent rather than independent. One is essential to the real progress and the full fruition of the other.

The country supplies the town or city with its bread and muscle, with the pulsant strength without which material and intellectual advancement is impossible. Most of the leading men in the business and professional life of any urban population were country-bred, and medical experts tell us that no city family can maintain its normal vitality past the second or third generation without recourse to life on the land. Our foremost statesmen, clergymen, physicians, lawyers, and educationalists, our most vigorous captains of industry, commercial magnates and railway builders came up from these rural districts which are an everlasting well-spring of urban vitality and manhood.

Outlet For Young People

Just here the law of compensation appears. If the farm produces red blood for the town or city, the town or city affords a convenient outlet for this red blood. Young men and women, whose inclination or ambition renders them averse to country life find their natural field of effort in the neighboring urban centre. If such centre is not near at hand family ties suffer and ever-increasing numbers of valuable citizens and their productive capacities are lost to the country, the Province or even to the nation. If these young people can find congenial city occupations or vocations in some town or city near home they remain in touch with their own people and enlarge the purchasing capacity of such centre so far as the foodstuffs produced by the neighboring farmers are concerned. This phase of the present argument will become gradually convincing as the agricultural communities of the West take to mixed farming and the cultivation of other foodstuffs than the primary grains.

Social Interdependence

There are far wider senses in which the urban centre confers vital and vitalizing benefits upon the territory contiguous to it for miles around. The town or city develops the social side of the race and affords opportunity for those activities in which human beings secure better results collectively than individually or in comparative isolation. It is only in populous places that colleges, universities and other institutions of learning and culture spring up, and but for these the farmer's boys and girls could have no education beyond that provided by the local public schools. But for the congregation of humanity in populous places the development of the nation would enjoy no development in music, painting, sculpture, architecture, in the higher civilization and finer phases of life. But, for towns and cities there would have been little advancement in medical science and there would be none of these modernized hospitals to which the farmer and his wife and children are glad to go for relief when stricken by disease or accident. Even religion itself would suffer for want of the driving force which it acquires in the theological colleges and philanthropic associations which are to be found only in our cities. If some of our manufacturers and business men acquire large fortunes, many of them give freely of their substance to colleges, universities, and hospitals may minister to the farming as well as to the urban population.

It stands to reason, therefore, that the greater the number of towns and cities scattered about the prairies the better for those who till the soil. Villages do not grow into towns and cities without manufacturing industries, and manufacturing industries cannot live in Canada except under the aegis of a fiscal policy which encourages their establishment and growth in this country. This is true for the Eastern as well as for the Western Provinces.

The Mac-Cone Brick Co., Edmonton, Alta., are installing additional machines so as to give the plant a fully capacity of 60,000 bricks. The factory will be operated by electricity. During 1912 the Dominion Steel and Coal Co. had 5,600 men on its pay roll, but this year's requirements will run largely in excess of this, as 1,500 men will be engaged in the new mine. The wage bill last year ran nearly $250,000.

The Lethbridge Creamery Co., Ltd., has been incorporated at $22,000 capital, permission to increase the capital to $100,000. It contemplates erecting a treacherous cold storage plant. A warehouse is being erected in Edmonton, Alta., for the National Drug & Chemical Co.
